Could Lose
Milk Subsidy

The School Committee is in a bind over awarding milk bids to the two highest bidders.

Advice of town counsel is being sought, following a discussion Tuesday night.

Brox Dairies of Methuen, the original low bidder at .05885 per half-pint, has written to the Committee stating that the award to Walnuthurst and Wild Rose Dairies, at .0625 cents per half-pint, will be protested. The firm states that the lowest qualified bidder should receive the contract.

Supt. Edward I. Erickson also read into the records a letter from the school lunch program office in Boston which reviewed information supplied to it by N. James Brox, treasurer of the Methuen firm. The letter stated that the federal agency might consider an award to the high bidder a mis-application of funds, and withdraw its support of the milk program.

Mr. Erickson also reported talking to the director, who agreed that it is likely that the four cent per half-pint subsidy will be taken away, if the low bidder is not given the business.

The difference in price indicates that milk supplied to the schools will cost about $3,000 more than it would at the lowest bid price. The extra payments will be made by the children, it has been explained.

The Committee felt itself faced with a real problem - the local firms have been notified of the decision to give them the business and the Committee legally withdrew from that decision? Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien will be asked that question, and will be given copies of the letter from the lunch program officials, for his comments. He has already ruled that nothing in the state law requires awarding the bid to the low bidder.

Marjorie Mazel
Recived Degree

Miss Marjorie Ellen Mazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mazel, 46 York st., received the Bachelor of Arts degree, cum laude, from Smith College June 7.

A participant in the honors program in sociology, Miss Mazel will undertake research work in race relations, at the London School of Economics, next year.

Ziagra Received Degree 40 Years After His Dad

George A. Ziagra, 213 Greenwood rd., received a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering at Northeastern University's 63rd annual Commencement Exercises, Sunday, June 14.

His father, Albert, was awarded a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from Northeastern 40 years ago, in 1924, one of the first graduating classes from N.U.'s College of Engineering.

A dean's list student, Ziagra will begin graduate work in Northeastern's Graduate School of Engineering in the fall under a teaching fellowship. A member of the national engineering honor society, Pi Tau Sigma, Ziagra has been employed with the Avco Research Division, Wilmington through Northeastern's Co-operative Plan of Education.

Under the "co-op" plan, upper-class students alternate periods of classroom instruction with periods of employment on regular paying jobs with business, industry and the professions.

Teachers Installed Neal As President

More than 100 teachers of the public schools met at the Shawshin Manor Monday evening, June 1, for the Andover Teachers' Association annual spring dinner.

Retiring teachers Bernard Kellmurray, Marjorie Smith, Irene Donaldson and Christy Robertson were honored with certificates and gifts. Other teachers, who have already retired, were also honored.

Newly elected officers installed were Richard Neal, president; Charles Mourikas, vice president; Dorothy Minzner, secretary; and Margaret O'Riordan, treasurer.

Junior High School students Pat McDowell and Philip Clinton provided entertainment.

Thousands of pennies may make a fortune, but no amount of small talk adds up to wisdom.

Froderman Elected To Lead Church

A call to use "spiritual power" to help solve the world's "thorny problems of human relations and race inequalities" greeted Christian Scientists at their annual meeting in Boston June 8. Several thousand members from many states and countries attended the meeting at The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

A message from The Christian Science Board of Directors reaffirmed the church's conviction that the mightiest force on earth is "the still small voice of universal Christian idealism."

The election of Edward Froderman as the new president of the church for the coming year was announced.

His address to the gathering described "spiritual perception" as a necessity for meeting today's great human responsibilities.

"This unparalleled hour is presenting an opportunity for each of us," he said. It has become essential to "make use of our God-given spiritual power."

Mr. Froderman is a former vice president of a Chicago Bank, resigning in 1949 to enter the public practice of Christian Science healing. He moved to Boston in 1956 to serve as manager of the Church's Department of Branches and Practitioners. In 1961, he was appointed as a trustee of The Christian Science Publishing Society, a position he still holds.

The new church president is a native of Bad-Salzuffen, Germany, emigrating to the United States as a teen-ager. Living with relatives in Chicago, Mr. Froderman soon became interested in Christian Science and enrolled in the Sunday School. He went on to become First Reader and board chairman at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Chicago.

GOP COMMITTEE ENDORSES CANDIDATE

representatives. The other incumbents are William Longworth of Methuen and Albert Pettoruto of Ward One in Lawrence.

The meeting a week ago appears to have shattered party harmony, as far as the Town Committee is concerned.

Proponents of the endorsement attacked Rep. Williams on several counts - they cited statistics from 1956 through 1962 which they said indicate a gradual decline in votes; his voting record and absences on some roll calls were also discussed.

Mr. Williams defended his position, telling the Committee that his vote fluctuated, as does the vote of others, depending on who runs in opposition and particularly in presidential elections.

Proponents argued that the seat might be lost to the Republicans, unless someone else is the nominee. Mr. Williams refuted the allegation, claiming that his strength holds up in proportion to other candidates for representative, and depending on who else is on the ballot from Andover.

For the most part, Rep. Williams told the 25 Committee members, his absentee record resulted from military service, and during a week's absence ordered by his doctor. Proponents of the endorsement for Mr. Cronin used his roll call record as a reason for supporting someone else.

Citing arguments that the Committee demonstrates no loyalty to Mr. Williams, the incumbent, an official executive committee report to the members alleges that loyalty to the party is greater than that to an individual.

by: Paul Upson, R. Ph.

We feel that sleep is worthy of a few words for the simple reason that your health demands a sufficient period of relaxation to rest not as much the body as the brain. What is sufficient rest? Aristotle said: "Six hours of sleep for a man, seven for a woman and eight for a fool." However, sleep's duration is much like a new shoe - if it feels good, it's right.

In general, the very old require the least sleep, the very young the most. Average sleeping time for adults is 7 1/2 hours.

Don't be asleep, however, in the matter of where to go for your prescriptions and medical supplies. Your medical needs are our most important business at SHAWSHEEN PHARMACY, Shawshen Square. Free prescription delivery.

THIS WEEK'S HOUSEHOLD HINT: If no medication is handy, ice water is a soothing and effective treatment for burns.

The report listed examples, in Democratic politics, where party officials have endorsed newcomers over incumbents. These were the California contest and in Ohio.

"In politics you are out to win, so that your philosophy of government can prevail. This is the higher loyalty and it must supercede any loyalty to individuals", the report concluded.

Friendly Guild Elected Officers

At their annual meeting, The Friendly Guild of Christ Church elected the following slate of officers for the new year:

President, Mrs. Melvin Nicoll; vice president, Mrs. Edward P. Pettoruto; secretary, Miss Isabelle Greenhow; treasurer, Mrs. David Lockwood.

Ways and Means, Mrs. C. Lincoln Giles; Membership, Mrs. Alan Waters; Worship, Mrs. Sidney E. Lamb; Sunshine, Mrs. James White; Missions, Mrs. Sydney Pollard; and Publicity, Mrs. Robert G. Goodwin.

POND WATER SAFE FOR BATHING

The results of the bacterial examination of samples of water collected recently from the Ponds Pond public bathing beach and Camp Maude Eaton bathing beach areas, by the Andover Board of Health, showed that the water was of suitable quality bacteriologically for public bathing, according to Robert A. Walsh, chairman.

Periodic tests will be taken throughout the summer.

June, Dairy Month

June is traditionally the time when milksheds have the highest productions. To cite this peak, Dairy month is being celebrated for the 28 consecutive year. It is also a salute to the dairy industry. Milk has frequently been called "nature's most nearly perfect food" because it supplies high percentages of daily food nutrients needed by people of all ages, and because it is one of the most economical sources of food in our diet. Dairy products can be used in many dishes to spark your meals and make them nutritional as well. Milk can be bought in many forms, so make full use of them in menu planning. Last year each American ate 18.2 quarts of ice cream and drank 125 quarts of milk.

The Findeisen's Farms are proud of their reputation of being the producers of the finest dairy products in the state. If you're not a Findeisen's regular, call 687-7178 for your "pitcher" of health.

The Sutton Travel Agency has loads of valuable information as to hotels, restaurants and places to go in every European country which fit the $5 a day plan. This might be just the way that many more of us cango. Nine times out of ten, these folks have found that their trip had become more meaningful and more memorable, simply because they had avoided high costs and ostentatious living. Whether this is your cup of tea, or you want to go deluxe, Call 683-0200; the Sutton folks will help.

Calnan of New York City, became the bride of Ensign Benjamin Sabin Bates Jr., U. S. Naval Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Bates, 32 Kelveden rd., Waban, at a 3:30 ceremony in Christ Church. The Rev. J. Edison Pike officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by Samuel S. Rogers of Andover, the bride wore a full length gown of ivory satin and her veil of Brussels lace was an heirloom of the bridegroom's great grandmother. She carried a cascade bouquet of gar-denias and stephanotis. Miss Jane Ellen Calnan of Andover was the maid of honor. Miss Martha Pemberton Bates, sister of the bridegroom, of Boston, Miss Susan Kinne Bartlett of Cambridge and Miss Lynda Bowne Rogers of Andover were the bridesmaids.

The attendants wore identical full-length gowns of apple blossom pink, peau de soie and had floral crowns upon their heads. Old-fashioned bouquets of daisies and miniature pink carnations were carried by all.

Benjamin S. Bates of Waban, father of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Townsmen Editorial Thoughts

Fund Hard To Obtain

The safeguards thrown up by state law and town by-laws against willful expenditures of municipal funds was amply demonstrated last week.

Officials were exploring every possible method which might be used to assure the Allied Chemical Co. of a water extension along Dascomb rd., at a cost of about $30,000.

But at every turning, they met the stone wall of legal devices set up to assure the voters that only they, at town meeting, can appropriate or allocate funds.

The reserve fund could not be tapped; the money appropriated for water extension had been carefully earmarked for specific jobs, and could not be diverted; the stabilization fund, now holding $100,000, was unavailable.

Only a vote of town meeting, it seems, can free the necessary money for such a project.

While it may seem cumbersome, even frustrating at times, such a legal barrier may be a good thing. Most voters might have approved this specific project; the next one, however, might not meet their approval. Imagine the complaints, should town officials spend funds that were, for example, allocated by a prior town meeting for another project, even of similar nature.

The only way to have money available for projects that arise between town meetings is to deliberately create a fund, for use at the discretion of the Selectmen and Finance Committee.

Whether or not the voters will buy this sort of fund, whatever the reasons for it, is doubtful, however. There's strong sentiment in favor of town meeting control over specific jobs regardless of in-between needs such as this one.

How To Lose Elections

The Republican Town Committee has shattered precedent locally by voting to endorse a candidate for a partisan office.

In times past, the Committee has worked for the GOP nominees but has not endorsed a candidate for nomination. Of course, many individuals, although they hold membership on the Committee, have worked for candidates freely, but as individuals only.

It seems possible that this new action may, rather than produce an abundance of support, result in a feud of long duration. This would work to the opposite purpose of the one the Committee hopes to attain - winning candidates.

The position of neutrality by the Town Committees of both parties, throughout the pre-primary period, has seemed best to many seasoned politicians. Most feel that it is too difficult, if the Committee's endorsee fails to make it, for the Committee to flip over a new page and support the nominee, whom they have only recently opposed. This may be theoretically possible, but is unrealistic in practice.

The Committee may well have embarked on a course that will lead it in directions away from harmony and full partisan support for its nominees in November.

The Board of Water Commissioners having organized - Mr. Flint being chairman and Mr. Haynes secretary - work has begun promptly. They are to occupy as an office the northwest ante-room of the town house, which has been used by the police as a headquarters for some time.

Hon. F. E. Warren, governor of the Wyoming Territory, was in town Tuesday.

Anthony Ward is having a cellar put under his barn.

How about a Fourth of July celebration? Selectman Stark is usually ready to start a thing of this kind, and is hereby named a committee of one to get the ball in motion.

Our Congratulations

Congratulations to the 942 voters who attended Monday night's special town meeting.

It was a long, hot evening, and seating arrangements were difficult due to the emergency use of the high school auditorium.

But the majority of those attending the meeting remained clear to the end.

We especially wish to add our editorial endorsement to that of the meeting, in welcoming the Allied Chemical Co. to an area off Dascomb rd.

The overwhelming vote of approval, via re-zoning, indicates a desire for industrial expansion on the part of hundreds of citizens. They applauded the statement that this step forward should be the first of many.

All in all, it was a good meeting, thanks to the voters who take their municipal responsibilities seriously.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman
"So the School Building Committee has come out for a completely new high school. This doesn't surprise me because, regardless what the overriding reason may have been, the situation contains at least two built-in factors which favor such a decision."
"One factor is that one government agency almost never backs another government agency. To do so would create consternation within the government and confusion among the people."
"The other reason is that, other things being equal, no one in his right mind prefers a patched-up job to a brand new one."

"But surprising or not, a decision acceptable to our school people isn't necessarily a decision acceptable to the voters. For this there is plenty of precedent in this state and in Andover in particular."
"I like to think that the building committee's responsibility is not so much to produce a plan acceptable to our school people as to produce a plan acceptable to a public which will take a hard look at this multi-million dollar appropriation."

"Public sentiment against a brand new high school also has at least two underlying reasons, whether right or not, word has gotten around that the proposed site is swampy and therefore expensive to build on."

"Even more important, the public well remembers that only a few years ago we built a new high school which includes extra core facilities for the purpose of handling future expansion. The public's investment is there, but no one in authority now wants to use it for the purpose intended. This sticks like a bone in the public craw."

"What would add insult to injury would be a fresh proposal to compound the felony by again proposing a relatively small school with extra core facilities, on the grounds that the immediate core would be less and on the fallacy that a future committee will do what the present committee has voted not to do. Such a recommendation may well prove fatal."

"An alternative still open to the present committee would be to build for 1,500 students now. But here is the other half of a public dilemma. An acutely tax-conscious public may well gag at such a proposal, particularly as they realize that this is only the first of a whole series of new school buildings soon to be built."

"I see only one way out of the dilemma which decisions to date leave the public, namely - the development of a simpler and more economical alternative. Our building committee should have a first choice. But prudence calls for a completely different proposal in case their first plan is rejected."

"It seems to me that only by having a second choice ready would the school building committee meet their moral obligation of submitting a publicly acceptable plan."

"Not to be thus foresighted would involve unnecessary delays if the first plan is voted down at the next town meeting for being too visionary."

Changing Frontiers

By Lynne C. Anderson

When John F. Kennedy accepted the nomination for the presidency of the United States in 1960, he spoke these words: "I tell you the New Frontier is here, whether we seek it or not. Beyond that frontier are uncharted areas of science and space, unsolved problems of peace and war, untamed pockets of ignorance and prejudice, and unanswered questions of poverty and surplus. I am asking you to be pioneers on this New Frontier."

From the beginning of our history, the opening of new frontiers was a challenge to those courageous ones who were willing to take all and risk much. Although historians may disagree as to the reasons why men and women left the safety of settled communities to push into the wilderness, they admit that the frontier did much to shape the American character. The Democratic institutions that the colonists brought with them from the Old World were soon to be strengthened by frontier environment and become even more democratic. In 1912, when Mexico and Arizona became the last frontier in our continent disappeared.

In an expansionless land, modern technology has created many new frontiers. Just as the frontier shaped the character of the early pioneers, so the quickened pace of our times and the challenge of the New Frontier are shaping the personalities of the youth of today. Our life becomes more complex, the challenge and the demand on the individual become greater. The challenges that we face will require that we be patriotic, intelligent, imaginative, patient, honest, and willing to work.

In every generation of America there have been people who accepted the sacrifices that were required to keep America free and great. This generation is no exception. It has enthusiastically endorsed the Civil Rights Program, the Peace Corp, and Exchanges in International Living.

Today, we stand at the base of a mountain - a mountain of many unsolved problems. The trail we will be difficult and dangerous - shrouded at times with clouds of uncertainty that obscure the path. Flooded at other times by sunshine that reveals plateaus where we may see disease concealed, racial discrimination eliminated, and the war on poverty won. Our generation may not reach the top of the mountain and view the vistas of world peace and prosperity for mankind; but we shall establish good base camps from which others will continue the work that we begin. As we go forth, let us, the members of the class of 1964, accept this challenge: "Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed."

This Restlessness

By Paul S. Nelson

Most people feel as did John F. Kennedy that Robert Frost was one of our greatest American poets; and for us New Englanders he has a special place in our hearts. His name is synonymous with everything connected with this region; the countryside, the New England dialect, the colonial architecture, the Yankee ingenuity and dry humor.

In his poem "The Bear," Frost compares man to this beast, observing that man, unlike the bear, is never content.

"He paces back and forth and never rests

The toe-nail click and shuffle of his feet,

The telescope at one end of his beat,

And at the other end the microscope."

But is it not fortunate that man is constantly searching and never satisfied?

Many would say that man has made a shambles of the world because of this restlessness which is his nature. These persons would tell us that we have only to look at the daily newspapers to be aware of this. To some degree it is true. We realize when we reflect for a moment that the world may well be on the brink of total destruction from atomic warfare. We witness the actual combat that is carried out today in Viet Nam, and the racial strife which has come to an ugly head.

From the naturalist's point of view we are disgusted with our polluted waters, our smog-filled cities, our needlessly burned woodlands, and our littered scenic areas. We begin to think of man as an insidious greedy creature whose sole purpose is to destroy and take what he wants regardless of the consequences.

We are told that life today is most frustrating, that there are a large number of nervous breakdowns, seldom seen in "Grandma's day" and the ulcers nowadays are as common as typhoid used to be. The same sources inform us that these are a result of high tension, great mental strain, and pressures non-existent until recently. In comparison, the life of the bear seems indeed desirable to us, for he is carefree and seldom frustrated, and has few wants in life. As long as he has food and shelter, he is content.

But although we admire the bear for his simplicity and we realize the troubles which man's unrest has wrought upon the world, we must also look to the benefits derived from it before we can accurately judge the present world situation.

Man's curiosity which has led to the formation of the atomic bomb signaled the advent of the use of atomic energy for peaceful means. Today across the country there are several atomic power plants like that at Rowe, Massachusetts which serve to generate electricity. In all probability the future promises more atomic power for peaceful purposes.

There have been several advances in other fields, too. In medicine we think of the polio vaccine, a great alleviator of disease; in communications we look toward Telstar, inconceivable fifteen years ago; in marketing we see better food production and improved packing methods, tremendous boons to every American family. These are but a few of the many advances which man has made in this generation alone.

It seems apparent to me that man's dissatisfaction and restlessness have given rise to more that is beneficial than detrimental in this world. Nevertheless, it is only natural for persons to feel that the time in which they are living is worst of all, for they experience only the problems of their era and have no way of making comparisons. Consequently, it is not surprising that persons are many times pessimistic and skeptical.

I know that each person in this graduating class at one time or another feels like the man in Frost's poem who "all day fights a nervous inward rage." As we go through life, we will try to satisfy this rage, each in his own way, whether it be in the sciences, in the arts, or in the business world.

Outlook

By Frederick R. Mugler

We are thrust into a period of rapid change. There is no turning back; we cannot ignore it. In the past few years we have witnessed more change than generations before us have in an entire lifetime. We have seen a seemingly austere English culture shaken by scandal, scandal that perhaps is indicative of the changing English philosophy of government, values, and morals. We have seen the great city of Berlin split by an ugly wall of concrete and barbed wire. We have watched thousands of Negro and white citizens march on Washington in an effort to make Americans re-examine their consciences in light of the changing times. In a few short years we have witnessed the death of a mundane pope, a beloved New England poet, a great military general, an inspiring neutralist leader, and an American president, who perhaps more than anyone else symbolized the period of change of which I speak.

Today colonialism is a thing of the past, and in its place comes a myriad of problems and challenges. The hands of power have changed throughout the world and there is hope that the cold war is beginning to thaw. Such hope is restrained, however, when one looks at Southeast Asia, Mao-Tse-tung, of Charles DeGaulle. We know not what direction the cold war is taking; we know only that the world situation is changing and changing fast.

The world is a turmoil because its people are undergoing a steady evolution, psychologically as well as physically. People are slowly placing their attitudes, prejudices, and convictions in the open for evaluation by themselves and by their society. Morals are being put to new tests on the college campus; racial discrimination is laid bare today as never before; age-old religious mores are being questioned as the needs of our society change. Science and philosophy as in fact every aspect of human thinking have been affected by this climate of change.

Our high pressure society has resulted in an apparent loss of creativity in such things as the cultural arts. We often wonder who will be the Shakespeare, da Vinci, or Chopin of Tomorrow. Somehow I cannot visualize them to be J. D. Salinger or the Beatles. At first glance it would seem that our culture is crumbling; but may I suggest that today's talent is only seeking new means of expression, and that the beauty of yesterday will never be lost.

The days when the rich were rich and the poor were poor are ending. The rising middle class is characterized by a desire to be accepted socially, to send every child to college, and in general to be just a part of a large, happy, and secure middle class. Conformity thrives on such an environment and manifests itself in the form of fads, cliques, and apathy.

And so into this chaos of mixed emotions and purposes, Andover High School delivers 230 questioning minds. We are bound by tradition and the lessons of history on the one hand, and lured by the promise of the future on the other. Are we truly moving towards a better world, or are we slowly degenerating into a world of mechanism where man no longer has direction or a purpose in life? It is wrong to assume that change always makes for improvement; though it often does. In a short time we will be deciding whether or not the change of our times is for the good. If it is, our outlook is one of promise. If it is not, we will turn in new directions. We are thrust into a period of change, and, indeed, there is no turning back.

And Miles To Go
Before I Sleep

By Susan M. Bamford

Graduation from secondary school is not merely a commencement, but rather one step closer to one's goal in life, one's purpose for living. Graduation may be a final factor in governing what one does after high school, but it is only the end result of what one has been striving for during most of his life.

PITFALLS FOR A
"BUREAUCRAT" . . .

There's a kind of "bureaucrat" at large . . . the one who packs bedding, linens and towels into bureau drawers when moving from one house to another.

Overloading bureau drawers risks damage of expensive furniture, points out Jean Paul Charron, moving consultant of the Begley-Aero Mayflower Transit Co. "It's alright to put a pillow or two in the drawer" advises Mr. Charron, "but only if it fits in comfortably. Avoid stuffing them in".

Bedding is best packed in a large, sturdy carton lined with white tissue paper. Folded sheets, pillow cases and towels carefully placed in this container will be ready for use upon arrival at your new home.

before I sleep" one may interpret in many ways. Robert Frost said he meant nothing profound by it. To me, however, it is of special significance and, I believe, to many of my classmates.

It is one thing to know what one wants in life, but it is another to be willing to sacrifice in order to attain a goal. Whether one intends to further his education or begin work, he must discipline himself for his own vocation. He must be able to face failure, but must not accept it as fate. He must strive to overcome all obstacles. He must meet obligations and sometimes make compromises. He has obligations to his family, his school, his society, and himself.

I am happy that my plans for the next four years are what I wanted them to be. For awhile I pompously said to myself, "I got into college on my own strength, on no one else's." I soon realized how false this idea was. I would not be the person I am today if it were not first for my parents and family. Each of us is a product of his family. We are guided by our families spiritually, socially, and academically. Our families try to see that these special interests do not clash. Our families guide us to a certain point and have faith that we will uphold the standards set by them. We learn to be independent, but we know that we can also be dependent upon our families.

We are fortunate to be graduating from Andover High School. We have not only a fine faculty but also an interested faculty — a faculty willing to help us in any way possible. Our teachers have not only broadened our minds and interests, but have also devoted their time to supervise extra-curricular activities and to write college and employment recommendations for us. We owe a special tribute to the guidance department that has helped us formulate our plans for the future.

We are fortunate to live in a society that offers an opportunity to all for the pursuit of higher education. Anyone willing to work hard to attain his goal in life can succeed. Rich and poor alike may go to college. For the most part society is not interested in where we come from; it is interested in what we are and where we are going. I mention higher education because many students of this year's graduating class plan to attend schools in September. College, however, is not all society offers us. There are job opportunities for graduates from high school — good jobs offering advancement.

Most important, we have obligations to ourselves. We must be able to identify ourselves, to know what we want to do with our lives. We have an obligation to ameliorate public opinion of teenagers. We are called teenage tyrants. Is this title accurate? And if it is accurate, why? Have teenagers failed or been failed? Only we as introspective individuals can truly answer these questions. Only we can decide whether or not we are good representatives of the generation that will some day govern this land.

ease, at the rear of the firm's land near the Shawsheen river. Flood Plain zoning was withdrawn from consideration. Also removed from debate was an article for a fire station in West Andover and to fix up a play area at the rear of the Sanborn School.

Defeated was a zoning article to control parking in the Main st. commercial area, after opposition by the Board of Trade and individual businessmen.

Dramatic Issue

Perhaps the most dramatic moment of the night came when Atty. Richard Sullivan delivered an emotion-laden speech appealing to the voters to save Arthur Collins - owner of the Florence st. lot - from bankruptcy.

It was explained that foreclosure proceedings have been started against the owners - Mr. and Mrs. Collins and Robert Wilson, now of California. Mr. Collins stood to lose his own home and savings, it was stated, unless the re-zoning took place.

A partially-completed office building on the lot can apparently be finished and used, following the 539-185 vote of the special session.

Most of the same arguments for and against the business use of the land were repeated Monday night. Atty. Edward Gordon and Joseph Barton were the main speakers against the re-zoning. Others urged that the courts be allowed to settle the issue, without the emotionalism that existed at the meeting. They included Col. Arthur Kramer of William st. and R. Wayne Long of South Main st.

Also speaking against the article was John Grecoe and Mrs. Barton. Miss Marion Hill arose to find out whether or not the town could purchase the land, thus relieving Mr. Collins. The answer from Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien was no - the town may only purchase land for a specific municipal purpose.

A legislative bill to allow payment of $35,000 damages to Mr. Collins is now in the Senate, but Selectman Philip K. Allen said it is doubtful of passage.

The Board of Selectmen led off

FLAG DAY CEREMONY - Members of Post 8, American Legion, in celebration of Flag Day June 14, presented a new American Flag to the town. Selectman Philip K. the discussion by aligning themselves with proponents of the re-zoning, having tried and failed to find any area of agreement among the parties.

The Planning Board said the proposed zoning is sensible from a planning standpoint.

Henry Wolfson also spoke for the article, as did Mr. Collins. Heinrich Rohrbach, from his mid-auditorium seat, reminded the voters that they had pledged allegiance to the flag at the beginning of the meeting - and urged that they act as the supreme court on this issue, rather than allow it to drag on in the courts.

Wide Margin

The industrial re-zoning measure was approved, 661-39. Opponents, including Vincent Treanor, objected to further industrial zoning when substantial areas are already zoned for the purpose. Mr. Treanor also opposed a trucking use of the Route 93 interchange at Dascomb rd., stating it had basically been built for automobiles.

Charles DeBell, chairman of the Industrial Commission, presented the case for Allied, explaining what is planned and what type of investment is involved.

Objections to the proposal also arose over the possible expense to the town for placement of a water main in Dascomb rd. That issue was not at stake Monday night, however.

Parking Turned Down

Opposition from the Board of Trade, through Parking Committee Chairman Eugene Bernard Jr., plus statements by John Davidson, convinced the voters to oppose proposed parking regulations for the center of town. The vote was 171 yes and 513 no.

Planning Board Chairman Harold T. King urged adoption, pointing out that the by-law had been modified to more nearly meet the objections raised by merchants. Some regulations, he said, are needed prior to a planning study in which additional centralized parking can be sought.

Mr. Davidson urged granting further time, until the latter study is completed, before imposing restrictions that might frighten away expansion or re-building. This was also the position taken by Mr. Bernard.

Re-codified By-Laws

The massive set of zoning by-laws - adopted as article six - was explained by By-Law Committee Chairman Robert Zollner. The meeting agreed with Paul Herbert's amendment clearing up any ambiguity in the section dealing with non-conforming uses. It was changed to guarantee that any home, if totally destroyed by disaster, could be re-built. A further amendment to apply this guarantee to non-conforming businesses was defeated.

Col. Kramer took the floor to point out that some alleged eyesores might eventually disappear, if no such guarantee is given.

An attempt to amend the by-law to open the door ever so slightly to funeral homes in residential areas was defeated. Frederick Allen moved an amendment requiring a special permit from the Board of Appeals for the location of such a facility in residential zones. It may only be located in business areas, under the by-law. His amendment was defeated after Planning Board Chairman King said traffic and parking requirements of a funeral home do not belong in residential neighborhoods.

An attempt to further amend the by-laws, involving a section devoted to lots split by zone boundaries, was defeated. Atty. Gordon suggested a change, which would have the rules governing the most restricted use of the split lot govern the whole.

In terms of a lot split by a residential-business line, for example, this would have it all considered residential.

The by-laws read just the opposite - the building inspector may decide whether the lesser restrictions may be applied to the lot.

Mr. Gordon's motion was defeated - and this was taken by most of the voters present to be a sign of how the voting might go on the Florence st. issue. The lot in question there was allegedly split - although this came in for substantial argument.

Agree On Recreation Plan

The Recreation Committee voted Tuesday evening to accept the proposal of the Andover Board of Trade to work with a professional park planner in preparing a master plan of the new Recreation Park area.

The committee, in supporting the proposal, agreed to cooperate and have their director, Leslie Bartow, supervise the work and activities of the planner.

ABT Vice President Archibald MacLaren and ABT Manager Charles R. Dunklee appeared at the meeting at the committee's request to explain the ABT proposal. MacLaren explained that the ABT would pledge $200 of the estimated $800 needed to finance such a plan if the committee would endorse the idea and agree to supervise the drawing of the master plan.

The Community Council for Recreation several weeks ago considered the same ABT proposal presented to them by ABT director Mrs. Albert Carpenter, and agreed to help underwrite part of the cost by contributing up to $300.

1,400 New Jobs At Service Center

Career opportunities in the Internal Revenue Service Center, presently located in Lawrence but planned for a new building in Andover, were discussed at a recent meeting of school and Service Center officials.

Attending the meeting were William Igoe, director of guidance and Miss Agnes Dugan.

The new building, at the intersection of Rts. 133 and 93, is expected to be ready by the fall of 1966. Norman E. Morrill, acting director of the Center, told the educators that about 1,400 new employees will be added between July of 1965 and February of 1967, making the Center one of the largest data processing facilities under one roof, anywhere in the country.

Most of the new employees, Mr. Morrill said, will be key punch operators, tax examiners and accounting technicians. Graduates from the area high schools are expected to fill a large number of the new jobs.

Foundation Gave Money For Project

In April of this year, Mrs. Horace M. Poynter of the Andover Garden Club wrote to the Salem Roebuck Foundation applying for one of the Civic Beautification contest prizes, awarded each year to Garden Clubs throughout the nation which have submitted the most worthy suggestions for a local improvement project.

Mrs. Poynter and Mrs. George S. Francis, on behalf of the Andover Garden Club, had received permission and cooperation from Town Manager Thomas E. Deane to plan and execute a garden and window boxes in front of the town hall. On the basis of this plan, the club was awarded one of the prizes in Massachusetts, $200, to get the project started.

Initial work was done by the Department of Public Works, the construction of the new flag pole by the Fire Department; and the Water Department made a water outlet accessible to hose the garden. Mrs. Poynter, Mrs. Francis and Landscape Designer and club member Miss Marjorie Stearns went to work with Phillip Bush, superintendent of the Tree Department, and planted the garden. Window boxes were built and painted by the committee, filled with proper soil mixture and flowers and placed in the upper windows. Two flower filled urns bank the main entrance.

Day Camp Plans Set

The Merrimack Valley District of Camp Fire Girls offers, again this year, day camping at their Harold Parker Day Camp on Stearns Pond in the State Park. There will be four weekly sessions of four days each week, starting Monday, July 6, and ending July 30. All girls registered in the district are eligible to attend. Girls not registered in the program can attend for a slightly higher fee.

Mrs. Scott Allison, Camp director, promises a program of swimming, campcraft, handcraft, archery and outdoor activities, including at least one cookout each week, with an overnight for older campers. Girls entering ninth grade in the fall are eligible to register as program aids. Since registration for the camp is high, there is still a need for counselors. Medical examinations are required and Dr. Richard A. Katz has offered to do this for the campers Thursday, June 25, from 1 to 2 p.m. at his office in Olde Andover Village, 93 Main St. A nominal fee will be charged.

A bus will transport campers to and from camp, and a bus-stop schedule has been made up for the convenience of the campers. First stop will be the library in North Andover at 8 a.m., then Shawshen Square, Memorial Library in Andover, and at the corner of Wildwood dr., and Main st. Coming back from camp, the bus will leave at 3:15 p.m. and re-trace the route.

The Merrimack Valley District Camping Committee is headed up by John C. Young, with Mrs. Gerald Nelson serving as Day Camp chairman. All registrations for campers, applications for program aids and counselors are handled by her, and she should be contacted in the event of any questions pertaining to the Camp.

Board Of Trade Dinner Tonight

The Andover Board of Trade will celebrate its Second Anniversary as a Division of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce tonight, June 18, at the Andover Country Club.

The dinner-meeting will begin promptly at 7 p.m. preceded by a social hour at 6.

Walter E. Knight, general manager of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker and will discuss "Andover's Industrial Future". Mr. Knight is a former Professor of Marketing at the University of Louisville where his research specialty was market location and analysis. He came to Boston in 1957 to organize and set up the Research and Industrial Development department of the Boston Chamber; and during the past several months has conducted several studies of the possible impacts that NASA and the proposed defense cutbacks will have on the Greater Boston area.

Vartkes Sohigian is chairman of the affair and will act as master of ceremonies during the business portion of the meeting. Following the dinner's formal program, dancing will be held until midnight for the enjoyment of the ABT members and their guests. Mrs. Albert Carpentier is in charge of the dancing program.

The Greater Lawrence Chapter of the SPEBSQSA Barbershop Quartet will provide musical entertainment, directed by Robert

A highlight of the meeting will be the naming of the two recipients, who will receive the ABT's President's Award and Community Service Award. Congressman F. Bradford Morse is expected to attend and make a brief report on his Washington activities. Other area legislators and town officials have also been invited to attend.
